

10 things I've done wrong

...so you don't have to.

by: tara 'missrogue' hunt who am I and why I'm qualified to talk about this stuff:

- co-founder + CEO Buyosphere.com
- been raising $$ for >1yr
- raised $200k F&F
- believed the hype
- lived in SF for 4yrs
- made a crapload of mistakes already
- serial entrepreneur (but first startup) focused on the 'big picture' too much

Shopping Browser

a customer-centric revolution in online shopping

What is VRM?

VRM intends to improve markets and their mechanisms by giving customers tools to have more control over their buying decisions so that they are no longer at the mercy of the vendors and other parties on the supply side of the marketplace.

Project VRM at Harvard: http://cyberlaw.harvard.edu/projectvrml/Main_Page

the search for the perfect little black skirt

the original* pitch deck

since 2008 when I put this deck together, I've done 75+ versions...*

“The hard part is to figure out the fewest possible features that could possibly accomplish your company’s goals.” Eric Ries

The advantages of Minimum Viable Product (MVP)

1. test your assumptions
2. minimal wasted time/energy
3. iterative based on real customer needs

The trouble with Minimum Viable Product (MVP)

1.it has to be viable

2.it has to be viable

3.it has to be viable

key: build something your customers can use.

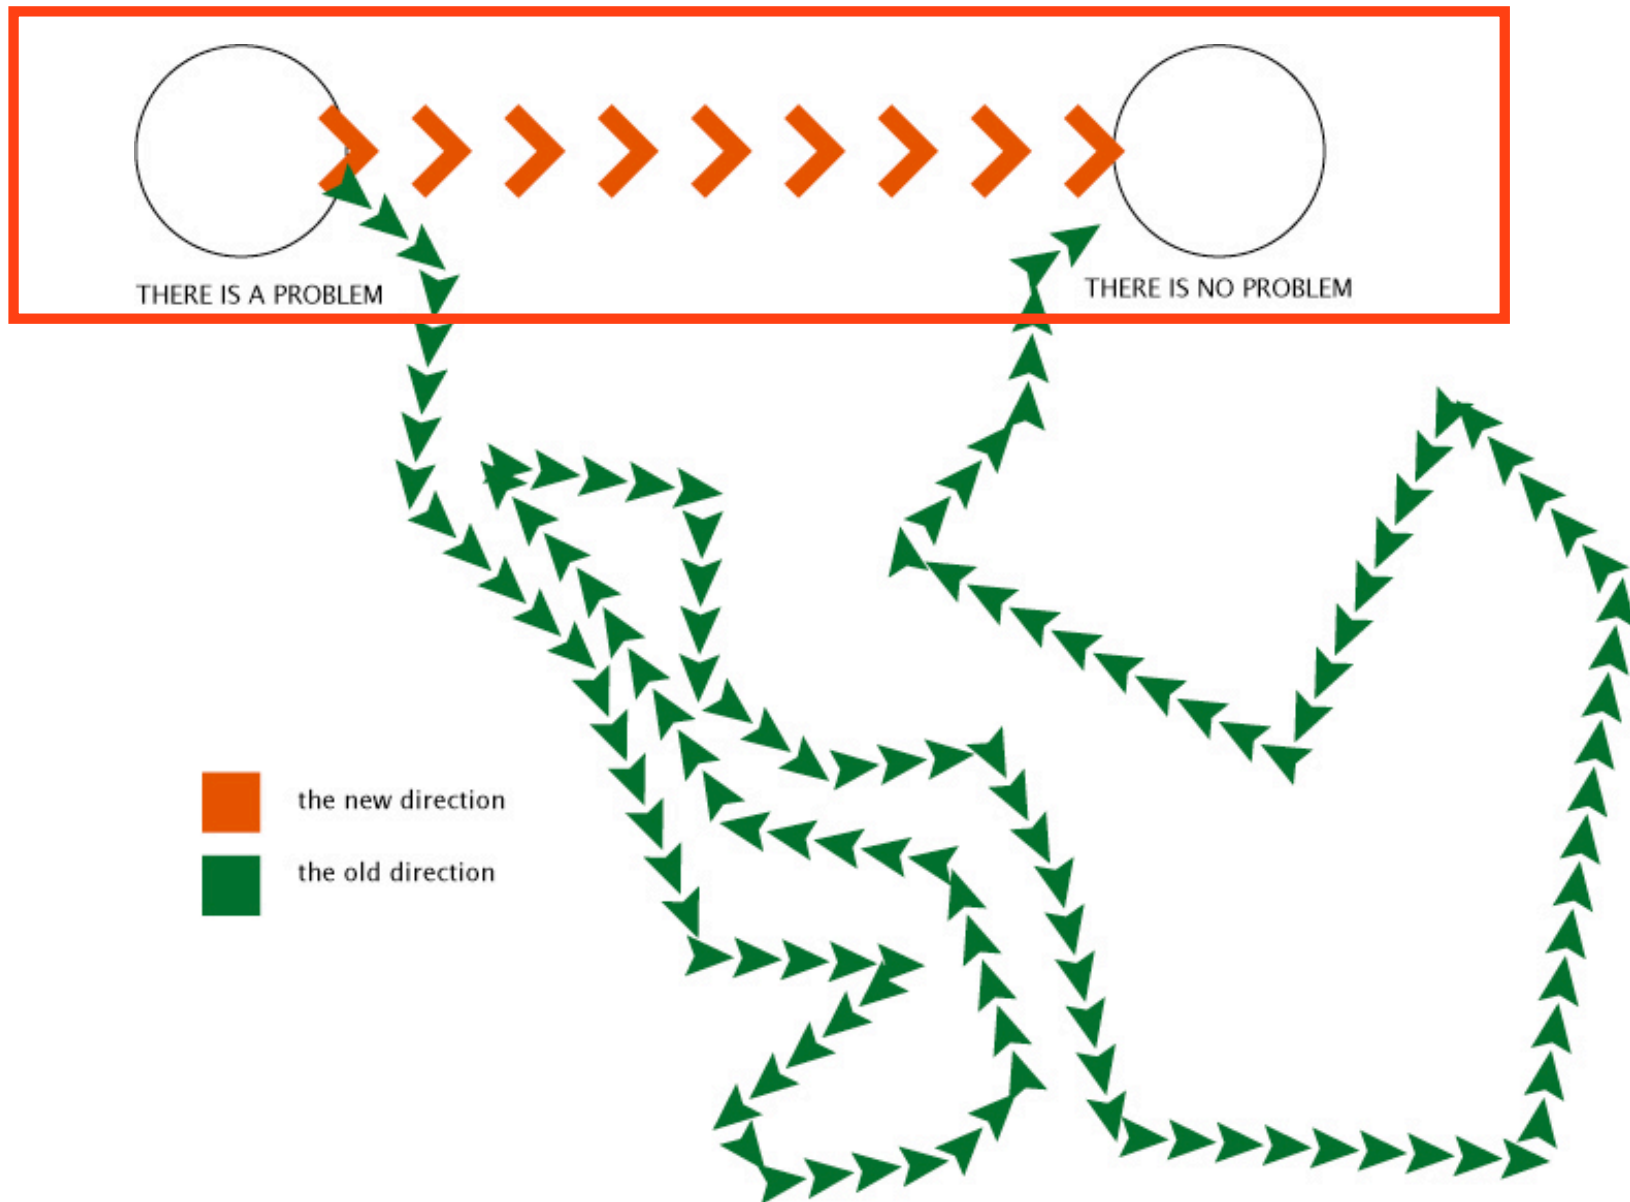

what we did wrong: kept focusing on (our idea of) the final product and building minimum components of it rather than thinking about what our customers could really use.

the new direction the old direction

we were wandering lost in the sea of aimless builds with no data and no reason unfortunately, it took us a year and $200k to figure this out.

fortunately, we've figured it out.

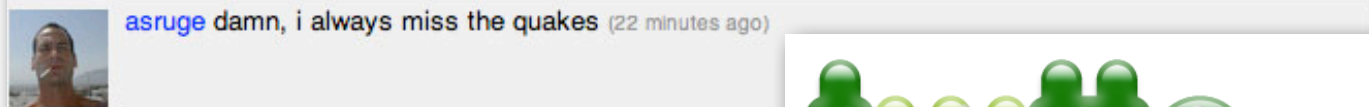

3 ways to figure out MVP

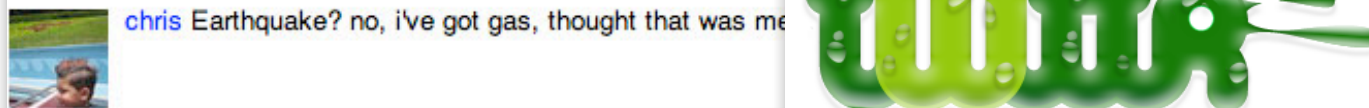

1. Think about the problem you want to solve and ask yourself: “Could I accomplish this on an email list?” Try it. On an email list. OR think about how people solve it currently. Can you hack that?
2. Talk to as many of your intended customers as possible and ask them for little things they really need. Build something that keeps coming up from these conversations in a weekend.
3. No audience? No problem to solve? Twitter, for instance, didn’t start out to solve a problem, but they launched a pretty minimal product. It was engaging because it was super simple to use. Think: Instagram.

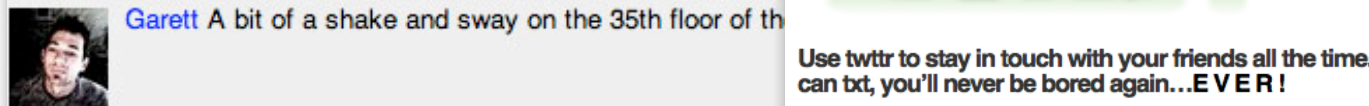

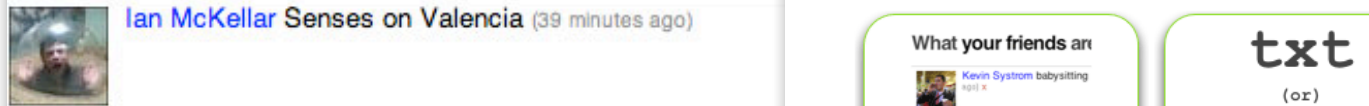

All public updates (over the last 24 hours)

 Crystal missed the quake due to aerobics. feet proly werent on the ground ;) (18 minutes ago)

 asruge damn, i always miss the quakes (22 minutes ago)

 chris Earthquake? no, i've got gas, thought that was me

 Garett A bit of a shake and sway on the 35th floor of the

 Ian McKellar Senses on Valencia (39 minutes ago)

 Rob Twtr: human seismic detection service. Is there a patch in usgs seismic servic (42 minutes ago)

 Sharon yep dan you did. I get them emailed to me and (about 1 hour ago)

 Tess Yes earthquake (about 1 hour ago)

 jason_g Hmm.. Quake, the garage rattled abit. (about 1 hour ago)

 Biz Stone I felt the eartquake but livy didn't believe me until the twitters started rolling in (about 1 hour ago)

 Johnny serious? (about 1 hour ago)

Use twtr to stay in touch with your friends all the time. If you have a cell and can txt, you'll never be bored again...EVER!

What your friends are

-  Kevin Systrom babysitting (40) x
-  Jeremy home - boys to bed
-  Katie It's my birthday! (about 1 hour ago)

txt

(or)

What are you doing?

.timeline

follow along with what your friends are doing throughout the day

- ★ Florian x (txt)
- ★ Garett x (txt)
- ★ goldman x (txt)

.what up?

send updates from your cell or from the web about whats in yr head Sign in.

Mobile number (or email)

Password (or PIN)

☐ Remember me

New? Sign up!

twtr works best when updated from your mobile phone. To verify you are you, we'll need your number.

Mobile number

STOP thinking about the big picture*. START thinking about creating value NOW.

a big picture is very good to have, but note that these things tend to shift, morph and become something altogether new over time.*

2

focused on the wrong things wrong things: anything that pushes people to do what you want them to do (i.e. spend time on your site)

right things: things that let people do what they want to do where they want to do it

What to focus on #1:

onramps and offramps

onramps	offramps
the ways we allow people to post to our apps from other places	the ways we allow people to post to other places from our apps
Facebook connect	Facebook likes, comments, recommends, etc.
Twitter connect	Posting to Twitter
Mobile app	SMS/MMS
Email forwarding	Email sending
Bookmarklet/Browser add-ons	Browser notifications
Buyo buttons on other sites	Site widgets/embeds

What to focus on #2:

analytics/engagement

A hand is shown in silhouette, reaching upwards towards a large, glowing sphere that emits a warm, yellowish-green light. The background is dark, making the sphere and the hand stand out. The hand is positioned on the left side of the frame, with fingers slightly spread. The sphere is centered in the upper half of the image.

you don't need a crystal ball to tell you what to do next, you need analytics.

Heard	Arrived	Used	Engaged	Bought	Referred
PR, Search, WOM	Landing pages	Sign up process	Actions/ interaction	Pricing/ Payment options	Tell a friend/ invites
Is there a story?	Is the message clear? Is it compelling?	How easy is the sign up?	How easy is adding content/ interacting?	Can the user live without it? How simple is paying?	Is this so awesome they'll wanna tell friends? Do you make it easy?
measure: unique visitors from various sources	measure: bounce rate on entry pages	measure: completion/ abandonment	measure: events/tasks	measure: transactions/ shopping cart abandonment	measure: invites, tweets, fb posts, emails + other referrals win: unique visitors growing steadily	win: bounce rate low + moving to sign up	win: sign up growth + filling up profile	win: engagement with actions/ interactions growing	win: growing percentage of paid customers	win: growing percentage of customers sharing + inviting others
unbounce.com Google Analytics	clicktale.com Google Analytics Mixpanel KISS metrics	Mixpanel KISS Metrics Google Analytics	Mixpanel KISS Metrics Google Analytics	Mixpanel KISS Metrics Google Analytics	Mixpanel KISS Metrics Google Analytics

What to focus on #3:

user experience

once you have a good sense of where you are losing people, figure out what you are doing wrong and fix the experience.

Heard	Arrived	Used	Engaged	Bought	Referred
you get no traffic. are you talking to the right audience? solving a real need? bad optimization? research needed.	you get lots of hits, but nobody signs up. is your message clear? are you talking to the right audience?	you lose people in the sign-up. is the sign up process simple enough? do you have performance issues?	people sign up, but then never do anything. are the instructions clear? Is posting too hard? do you have performance issues?	lots of sign ups + use, but nobody is buying. is it something people like, but isn't a 'painkiller' enough to buy?	people are using + buying, but nobody is sharing is sharing simple enough? obvious? are they just using your product or in love? when you have a clue through analytics, you move onto talking to your customers individually (and through surveys) to get more data.

3 didn't spend enough time on culture from day one

Aren't they cute?

picking a co-founder is on the same level as picking a husband or a wife.

Things to look for in a co-founder

1. complimentary skills
2. ability to 'pull their own weight' - these are co-founders, not employees
3. good conflict resolution skills (ability to kiss and makeup after the biggest fights you will ever have)
4. undying faith in you, the team and what you are doing
5. strong personality

if you ARE married or in a relationship, your husband/wife needs to understand you just brought a second (and 3rd) spouse into your life.

Culture is key: our 8 cultural values

1. YES!!!
2. TRUTH & TRANSPARENCY
3. NOT TAKING OURSELVES TOO SERIOUSLY
4. STRIVING TOWARDS WIZARDRY
5. FRIENDSHIP & KINSHIP
6. WE'RE NOT GOOD ENOUGH
7. BREAKING THE MOLD
8. EVERYBODY IS A CONTRIBUTOR

4 didn't quit my 'day job' fast enough

ESYSTEMS® TREK
FIRST AID

“I’m all in”

I was home after our incorporation about 25% of the time for the first 8 months of Buyosphere.

5

drank my own Kool-Aid

I admit it. I have an ego the size of Germany.

just because you're on TechCrunch doesn't mean that anyone cares...

So many things that were cool, but didn't matter

- chosen as a ASTIA portfolio company
- named as one of the 25 Women-Led Startups to Watch by Fast Company Magazine
- We raised $200k in F&F convertible debt from really fancy people
- chosen as a TechCrunch Disrupt (SF) Finalist
- Featured on Mashable, TechCrunch, ReadWriteWeb, SFChronicle, Building43 (Scobleizer), WowElle and more...

what matters? product/market fit. nothing else.
(Robert Scoble can offer you his first born and unless you find product/market fit, you have a ways to go.)

underestimated the time it would take to raise money

raise money

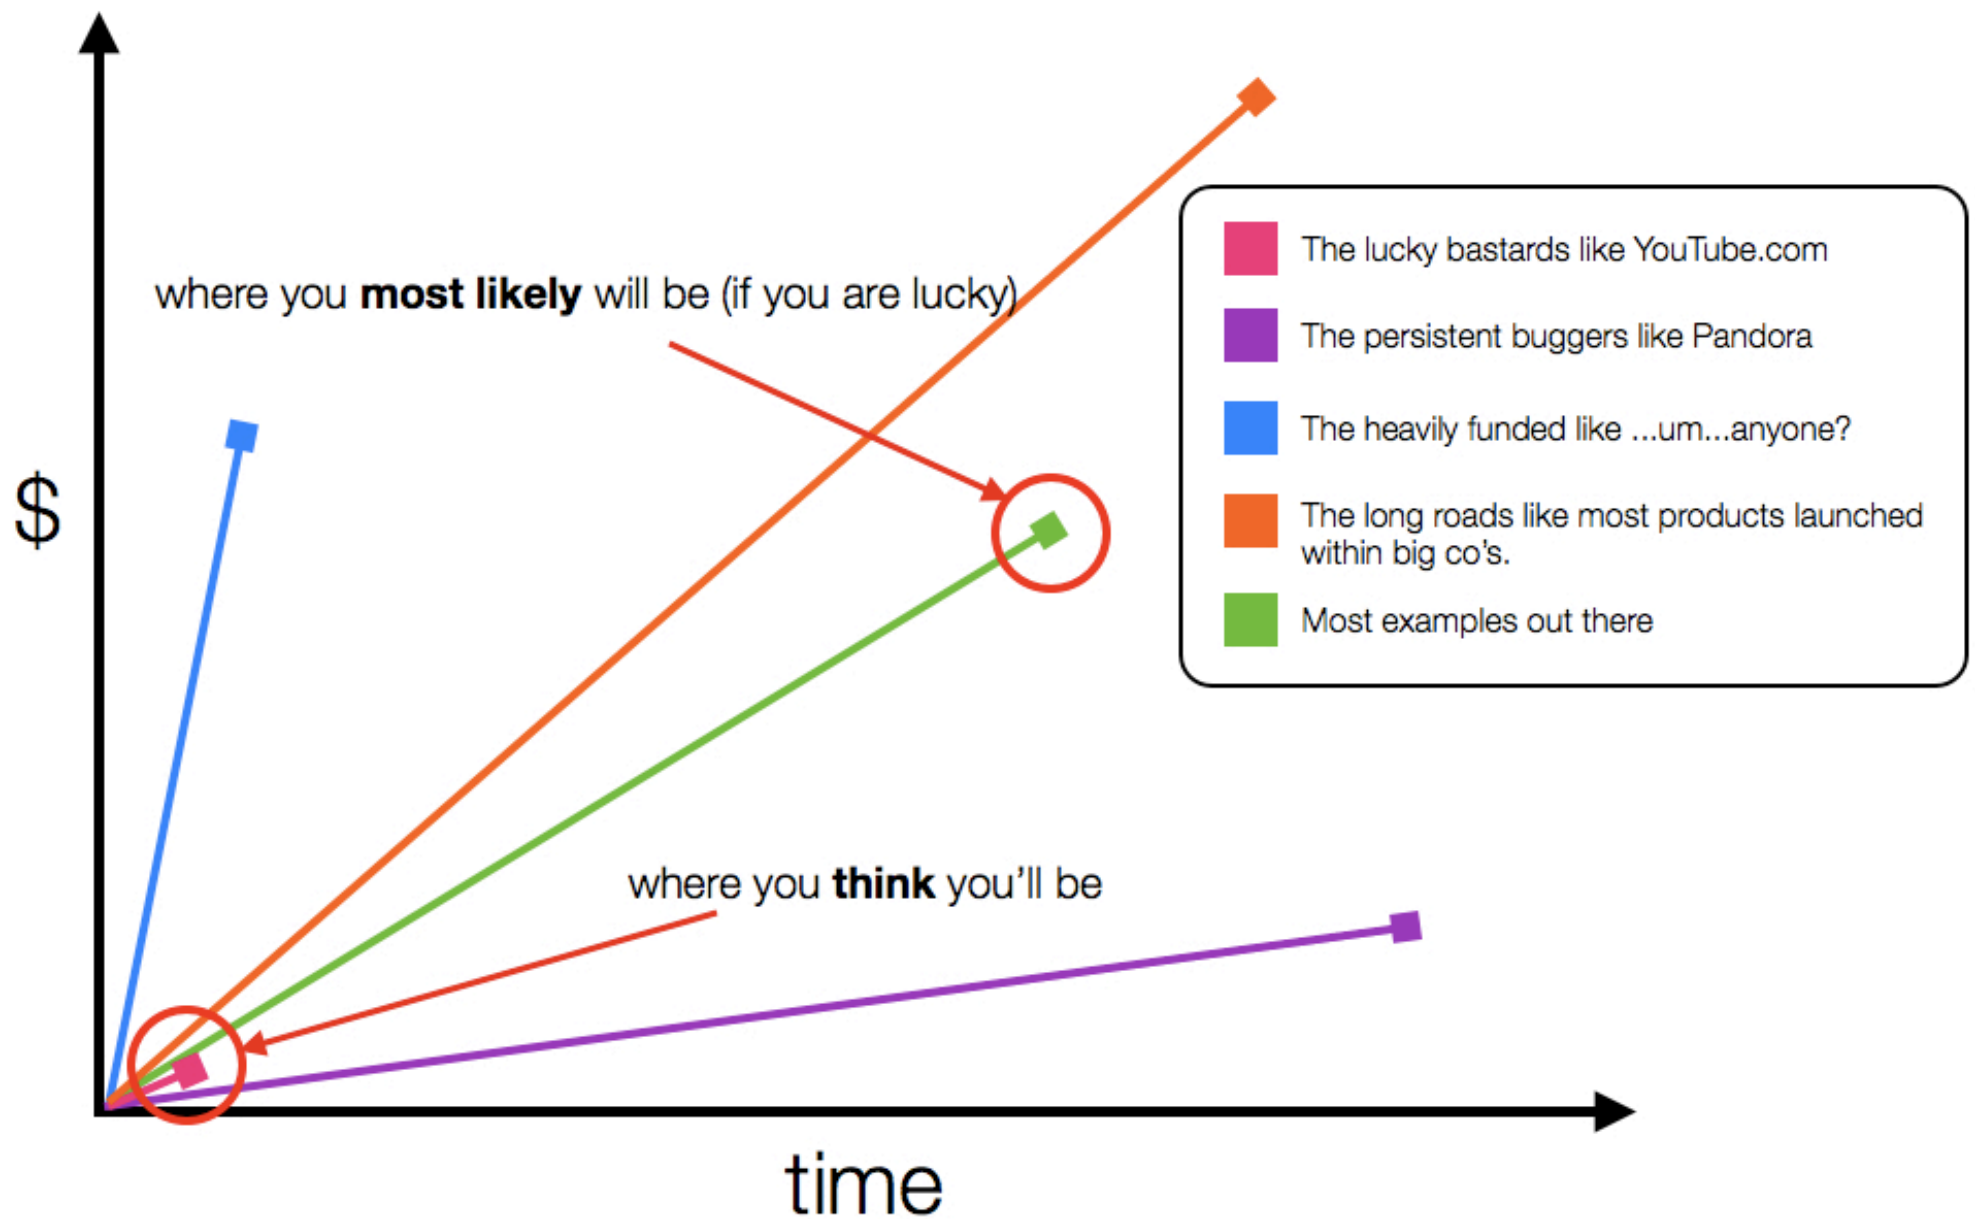

get to traction

if we got to traction, raising money would be simple if we raised money, we could have more runway to get to traction (or at least hire A level people)

the road to product/market fit listened to the tech press

LinkedIn IPO skyrockets, trades as high as $92.99 a share

May 19, 2011 | 8:21 am

(108)

(182)

(5)

Groupon Refuses Google Offer of $5.3 Billion

Posted by Kool Sam on December 4, 2010 in News · 0 Comment

Groupon IPO may value company at $15-$20 billion: source

Path Raises $8.5 Million, Opens Up (A Little)

Color Raises A Whopping $41 Million To Connect People Through Photos

Posted by Thomas Oppong on March 24, 2011 in Consumer, Entertainment, Mobile, Social, STARTUPS · 0

True Ventures Invests In 19 Year Old Entrepreneur Brian Wong

Michael Arrington

127

0

561

2

Aug 3, 2010

57 Comments

PayPal Cofounder Peter Thiel Is Paying 24 Kids $100,000 To Drop Out Of School

Alvson Shontell | May 28, 2011, 10:21 AM | 3.363 | 9

“So, to hell with all that noise. It’s just a big mass of envy, chatter and FOMO. Let’s get excited and make things.” Caterina Fake focused too much on competition panic!

I made hundreds of these...

a quadrant has nothing to do with how you will fare against your competitors. (refer to point #2 on what matters) fact: just because they've raised more $$ than you, it doesn't mean they will win. (we've watched at least 10 'competitors' raise oodles of dough and then shutter or pivot)

didn't learn from competition

as we weren't raising money, they were hiring big teams to make mistakes for us!

10

didn't communicate

there is no such thing as over-communication when you are doing a startup.

but...there is 1 thing I've done right

that you should also know about

NEVER GIVE UP!

“Many of life's failures are people who did not realize how close they were to success when they gave up.”

Thomas Edison

WHEN LIFE GETS HARDER

YOU MUST HAVE JUST LEVELED UP

the entrepreneurial venn

A. those that go postal

B. dictators

C. serial killers

D. startup entrepreneurs

thank you for being crazy, audacious dreamers. xo

Tara (@missroque) Hunt

ceo/co-founder, Buyosphere

tara@buyosphere.com

514-679-2951

www.buyosphere.com

www.horsepigcow.com

twitter.com/missroque

